Carlita Pitts is the assistant director of alumni affairs & donor relations at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. She is responsible for stewardship of the College's major donors through cultivation and recognition events, gift acknowledgement letters, annual endowment reports, alumni affairs, regional events, volunteer management and management of the College's giving society.

Prior to joining Ohio State, she worked at Chase Bank for five years and was responsible for communications, project management and administration for the Default Business Analysis & MIS department.

Carlita has been a presenter at the CASE Special Events for Advancement Conference 2010 and hosted the Julia S. Emlen Intentional Stewardship workshop in 2009. She currently serves as the volunteer coordinator, social media moderator and a member of the public relations committee for the Association of Donor Relations Professionals. In 2009, she was awarded the Volunteer Service Award from The Association of Donor Relations Professionals due to her substantial role in developing the association's marketing and volunteer programs.

In her spare time, she does freelance marketing and public relations projects for Julia S. Emlen, BET, and various organizations.

Carlita received her bachelor's degree in communications from The Ohio State University.
