

5 Compelling Reasons to Join

- Immediate access to a community of colleagues, who do what you do every day, and who openly share their wisdom, experience and resources.
- The opportunity to expand your network, stay on top of emerging trends, and accelerate your career.
- Free resources, such as monthly webinars.
- Professional development opportunities, such as conferences and regional workshops, targeted to donor relations and stewardship professionals.
- Inspiration when you need it most and the confidence to execute boldly.

Association of Donor Relations Professionals

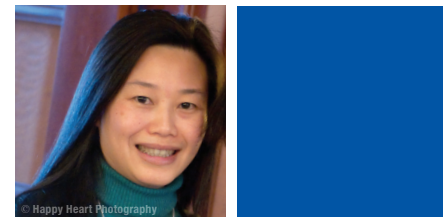

2150 N. 107th St., Ste. 205
Seattle, WA 98133

800.572.3015
members@adrp.net
www.adrp.net

Association of Donor Relations Professionals

Your Connection to Inspired
Stewardship

© Happy Heart Photography

www.adrp.net

© Happy Heart Photography

The Association of Donor Professionals (ADRP)

ADRP supports and enhances all aspects of fundraising and development by promoting the status of donor relations and stewardship offices through education, professional development and networking opportunities.

Inspired by the success of the New England Stewardship Conference held annually from 1992 to 2003, ADRP's founders created this international organization to be the definitive resource for donor relations and stewardship.

ADRP members from across the United States and Canada come together in person and online to share best practices, exchange new ideas, and develop professional connections.

ADRP is the only organization focused solely on stewardship and donor relations across such varied organizations as hospitals, museums, foundations, colleges and universities, and other non-profit institutions.

“Every day I struggle to keep my acknowledgment letters, gift receipts, and donor reports sounding fresh. The ADRP yearly conference makes a huge difference in how I approach these items. It provides me with new ideas and renewed energy that I haven't been able to find any other place.”

Julia Scott
Stewardship Associate Specialist
World Wildlife Fund

“ADRP has provided me with numerous professional resources and opportunities to reach out to donor relations and stewardship offices across the country. I welcome the opportunity to present about my position at the international conference and continue to share my enthusiasm about our profession with others. ADRP is the link that connects us all together!”

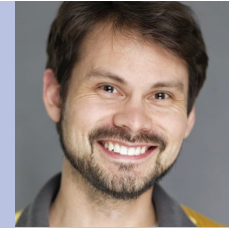

Rachael Scheffler
Director, Stewardship
Lehigh Valley Health Network

MEMBER BENEFITS

The many benefits of joining ADRP include:

- affiliation with the leading advocate for the profession;
- access to a growing network of colleagues, experts, and vendors;
- informational webinars on a wide range of topics;
- discounted registration for conference and workshop attendance;
- monthly electronic newsletter;
- online resource of stewardship materials, procedures, and samples; and
- access to an international list of job postings throughout the field.

“As a newcomer to this profession, ADRP has been an invaluable resource for me. It has given me the tools to build a successful comprehensive stewardship plan from the ground up and the ability to reach out to seasoned professionals around the country, and even around the world. ADRP has helped me achieve my career goals by providing the means to better position myself as a professional in the field.”

H. Hans Cardenas
Major Gifts & Campaign Coordinator
Stanford Law School

Join Today!

Membership is open to individuals who seek to foster a positive association with the philanthropic community. Membership is not restricted to those who work in the donor relations and stewardship field.

Join ADRP online at www.adrp.net. Your membership is effective for one full year from the date you join. Questions about membership should be directed to members@adrp.net.