

ADRP Regional Conference Job Descriptions

This document is primarily intended for use in planning a 1-2 day regional conference. For a smaller regional event, some of the roles and tasks identified here will not be relevant. In addition, the Chair/Co-Chairs may find that additional duties are necessary and may add to committee responsibilities as needed.

*The ADRP Office is your partner throughout your entire regional event experience. The whole team is available to support you in hosting a successful event. Reach out to them directly with any questions at office@adrp.net. See more at adrp.net/contact-adrp. To ensure regular and seamless communication, a representative of the ADRP Office will attend the kick-off committee call and may also attend full committee calls/meetings and subcommittee meetings where necessary. The ADRP Board has entrusted the ADRP Office with the final say on regional event activities, including, but not limited to: budget, registration pricing, date, venue, and timeline.

*The ADRP Board has delegated the management of the day-to-day operations of ADRP, including regional events, to the ADRP Office team. Depending on the size/format of your event, an ADRP Board Liaison may be appointed to join committee meetings and attend your event. The liaison is not a working member of your committee, but rather serves as a connector between you and the Board. The liaison reports event progress at monthly Board meetings and will be available to welcome your audience on behalf of the Board at your regional event. The liaison represents the Board and should not be asked to communicate with the ADRP Office about your event.

Regional Conference Committee Composition: Recruitment and Diversity

The ADRP Board recommends the following composition of regional conference committees to best represent diversity and inclusion in our membership:

- Include at least one member within the first or second year of their ADRP membership who has had at least one previous ADRP volunteer experience.
- Include at least one veteran ADRP volunteer and member who brings historical perspective to the task at hand – preferably for the content committee.
- The Chair/Co-Chairs should consider diversity in organization type, geography, and demographic diversity (race, ethnicity, age, gender, etc.) of members if possible.
- These guidelines apply to the recruitment of all volunteers for the regional conference.
- In addition to Chair/Co-Chairs, it is recommended that the Regional Conference committee consist of 5-10 additional volunteers. As volunteers, a larger committee will ensure Chair/Co-Chairs and Subcommittee Leads will have adequate support throughout the experience, and no single person will be tasked with too much.

- Please refer to the ADRP Volunteer/Speaker Discount & Reimbursement Policy as it relates to regional events if you would like to use event discounts and/or reimbursement as a recruitment tool.
